As intermission concludes, conduct the drawing in the theatre, giving half the proceeds to the winner. The return the raffle bucket and monies to the House Manager for counting and recording.

Please be sure to check the price of tickets as posted on the raffle bucket.

If running low on supplies during a performance contact the House Manager who will obtain more supplies from the office area. At close of intermission check supplies and let the House Manager know of any that are running low.

A person volunteering as a 50/50 Raffle Worker will receive one complimentary ticket for the evening/matinee show that he/she is working, provided that seats are available. On the occasion that seats are needed for paying customers, the worker will be offered a complimentary ticket for another show in the same run, if seats are available. In such case the volunteer would have to come to the theatre and would be given a seat at 10 minutes prior to production time when available; reserved seats are not available until that time.

Thank you for volunteering for the show. We appreciate you!
